I. Course Description
A course designed to familiarize students with the cultural differences of special populations of people. Emphasis on ethical use of appropriate counseling techniques for use with the major racial/ethnic groups and other special populations of people such as those who are physically or emotionally disabled, older, of different genders or of different sexual orientation.

II. Course Rationale
Practitioners must be exposed to the subgroups present in American society. These subgroups can be based on age, gender, sexual orientation, mental and physical characteristics, education, religious and spiritual values, socio-economic status or other commonalities. Knowledge, awareness, and skills are all necessary to be able to be effective in their ‘helping’ roles. This course will assist practitioners in improving their effectiveness by developing appropriate attitudes, information, and self-understanding.

III. State Adopted Proficiencies for Counselors covered in this class are the following:

Learner-Centered KNOWLEDGE:
1. Counseling students understand human developmental patterns and use this knowledge base to create developmentally appropriate guidance and counseling programs.

Learner-Centered Process:
2. Counseling students learn to create an environment that supports and encourages exploring options, sharing new ideas, and innovative problem solving.
3. Counseling students learn to utilize group counseling as a means of utilizing available human resources to provide maximum counseling services.

Learner-Centered Guidance Curriculum:
4. Counseling students learn to create and utilize a guidance curriculum that values diverse others, builds self-confidence, teaches decision-making and problem-solving skills, effective communication, responsible behavior, and increases motivation to achieve.

Learner-Centered Planning:
5. Counseling students learn to help diverse groups of clients set short-term, intermediate, and long-term goals; monitor progress toward their goals; and make necessary adjustments.

Learner-Centered Responsive Services:
6. Counseling students learn to help diverse groups of clients transfer learning to other situations.

7. Counseling students learn to help diverse groups of clients clarify problems and implement change.
8. Counseling students learn to help diverse groups of clients by understanding the referral process and when and where to refer clients.
9. Counseling students learn to help diverse groups of clients to monitor their own progress.

Learner-Centered System Support:
10. Counseling diverse groups of students learn to work as part of a collaborative team including learners, administrators, teachers, other school personnel, parents, guardians, and community members.
11. Counseling students learn to survey diverse groups of community members to determine needs that can be addressed by the counseling program and to develop broad goals related to priority needs and measurable objectives related to each goal.

Learner-Centered Professional Development:
12. Counseling diverse groups of students learn professional ethics and law related to counseling in public schools and community agencies.
14. Counseling diverse groups of students learn and study case studies related to professional counseling.

Equity in Excellence for All Learners:
15. Counseling students learn multicultural sensitivity.
16. Counseling students learn to respect all learners, be sensitive to their needs, and to encourage them to use all their skills and talents.

Learner-Centered Communication:
17. Counseling students learn active listening skills, open communication, empathic responding, caring confrontation, and conflict resolution.

IV. TExES Competencies Covered in this Course
Competency 001: Knowledge of human development in creating a counseling environment that fosters a sense of empowerment and self-determination.

Competency 002: Knowledge of a wide range of social, cultural, language, and economic factors in the home, the community, and school that affect clients’ personal growth and success.

Learning Outcomes
1. The students will understand multicultural and pluralistic trends including characteristics and concerns between and within diverse groups of individuals including families, couples, and students as evidenced by successful completion of class projects which explicitly include the multicultural counseling competencies.

2. The student will understand the effects of racism, discrimination, sexism, power, privilege, and oppression on one’s own life and career and those of the client as evidenced by successful completion of class projects focusing on critical self-reflection (e.g. cultural autobiographies or self-statements) and informed class discussion as deemed satisfactory by the instructor.

3. The student will explore attitudes, beliefs, understandings, and acculturative experiences, as evidenced by specific experiential learning activities designed to foster students’ understanding of self and culturally diverse clients.

4. The student will know theories of multicultural counseling, identity development, and social justice as evidenced by successful class projects and assignments.

5. The student will know individual, couple, family, group, and community strategies for working with and advocating for diverse populations, including addressing institutional and social barriers that impede access, equity, and success for clients as evidenced by successful class experiential activities and discussion feedback (as evaluated by the instructor) and class assignments which explicitly include the multicultural counseling competencies.

6. The students will be able to apply multicultural competencies to clinical mental health counseling involving case conceptualization, diagnosis, treatment, referral, and prevention of mental and emotional disorders as evidenced by successful completion of class experiential activities and class projects.
VI. Course Topics
Major topics to be covered include: Cultural self-awareness, White racial identity, acculturation, racial/ethnic identity development, gender and sexual orientation, social justice and advocacy, and multicultural counseling competencies. Additional topics described below in the course schedule.

VII. Instructional Methods and Activities
Instruction will be primarily lecture and seminar format supplemented with group discussions, participation, and class exercises. Given the focus on theory and group process, students will be expected to engage in discussion and process.

Class Participation
Students are expected to participate and engage during class. Discussion should be constructive, honest, and informed (based on completed class readings). Participation includes, but is not limited to, participating in in-class assignments, group discussions & group exercises. Participation is also measured in attendance & punctuality to class. It should be noted that attendance and punctuality is expected and will be excused only under special circumstances as determined by the instructor. Given that true learning takes place in discussion and interaction with others where students express and articulate their ideas, participation is a crucial aspect of this course.

Cultural Autobiography
Students will write a reflective paper on two cultural aspects of their identity and how these identities have impacted their life and development. The ADDRESSING model outlined in the textbook will serve as the basis for this assignment. Students are also expected to incorporate aspects of class readings and discussions. This assignment is not a recounting of events in the students life. It is a critical examination of particular identities in their lives. This assignment will be 12-14 pages.

Film Critique and Analysis
This assignment will be 6-8 pages. Students will watch and analyze two movies. The movie choices will be distributed. Students will be assigned two films to watch and critique. The following should be addressed in your analysis: Level of acculturation, Degree of acculturative stress, Aspects of worldview (individualistic v collectivistic), The role of the family (e.g. family relationships and values), Portrayal of people from different cultural backgrounds portrayed (e.g. ethnicity, sexual orientation, social class, etc.), examples of microaggressions and/or stereotypes, and any important historical considerations. A summary of the movie should not be included.

Multicultural Pioneer Profile
In small groups, students will review the scholarly work of one MC pioneer and make a presentation to the class (15-20 mins). The presentation should show the significance and importance of the pioneer. In other words, the class should have a clear understanding of why this person and his/her work is significant to the field of MC counseling. Some helpful guidelines would be to present some personal information about the person, name and briefly summarize seminal works by the pioneer, and outline the impact she or he has had on the field (this could include leaderships positions, recognitions, number of times cited in the literature, etc.). The presentation should also include a brief knowledge assessment for the class. The modality and/or format will be left up to the presenters. Handouts with important aspects in this person’s life and work should be distributed to the class.

Application of the Multicultural Counseling Competencies (MCC)
In small groups, students will choose a cultural group and, in detail, utilize the MCC to demonstrate some fundamental aspects counselors should be aware of when working with this group. Additional details about this assignment will be provided by the instructor.

All assignments should be typed. No handwritten work will be accepted. No late work will be accepted.

Attendance and punctuality are mandatory and the responsibility of the student. More than one absence will result in the lowering of a letter grade. More than 3 lapses in punctuality will be equivalent to an absence. Any excused absence is left to the discretion of the instructor.

All cell phones must be turned off and remain off during class.

Syllabus Statement on Disabilities:
Students with disabilities, including learning disabilities, who wish to request accommodations in this class should notify the Disability Services Office early in the semester so that the appropriate arrangements may be made.

Syllabus Disclaimer:
While the provisions of this syllabus are as accurate and complete as possible, the instructor reserves the right to change any provisions herein, with notice if circumstances so warrant. Every effort will be made to keep students advised of such changes and information about such changes will be available at all times from the instructor. It is the responsibility of each student to know what changes, if any, have been made to the provisions of this syllabus and to successfully complete the requirements of this course. Questions regarding information on the syllabus and course requirements need to be addressed by students when the syllabus is received.

XII. Grade Appeals*

As stated in University Rule 13.02.99.C2, Student Grade Appeals, a student who believes that he or she has not been held to appropriate academic standards as outlined in the class syllabus, equitable evaluation procedures, or appropriate grading, may appeal the final grade given in the course. The burden of proof is upon the student to demonstrate the appropriateness of the appeal. A student with a complaint about a grade is encouraged to first discuss the matter with the instructor. For complete details, including the responsibilities of the parties involved in the process and the number of days allowed for completing the steps in the process, see University Rule 13.02.99.C2, Student Grade Appeals, and University Procedure 13.02.99.C2.01, Student Grade Appeal Procedures. These documents are accessible through the University Rules Web site at http://www.tamucc.edu/provost/university_rules/index.html. For assistance and/or guidance in the grade appeal process, students may contact the Office of Student Affairs.

XIII. Disabilities Accommodations*

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please call or visit Disability Services at (361) 825-5816 in Driftwood 101.

If you are a returning veteran and are experiencing cognitive and/or physical access issues in the classroom or on campus, please contact the Disability Services office for assistance at (361) 825-5816.
