Course Description
Principles, techniques, and processes of written composition, textual analysis, and critical thinking.

Welcome to English 1301. This course concentrates on developing reading, writing, and thinking skills that will be valuable to students in and outside of college. We will explore how writing serves as a means of communication, and we will be working with practical writing skills in the writing process such as generating and focusing ideas for essays, composing drafts, and polishing (revising and editing) drafts. Students will read, analyze, and discuss written pieces from a wide variety of genres. Students will gain more experience with critical thinking skills such as analysis, synthesis, argumentation, and persuasion. Active participation in and outside of class is a must.

Finally, we will be learning about writing by writing. The heart and the bones of this class is writing. Be prepared to write!

Brief Description
The course will be divided into four units, each covering specific aspects within the study of writing. You will be asked to write an essay for each unit covered, a total of 4 major writing assignments in the course of the semester. You will also be asked to submit 2 major portfolios: 1 midterm, and 1 final. Specific guidelines will be posted to the class website for these as well as other writing assignments.

First 8 weeks
Readings from Chapters 1-4 will be used during the first 8 weeks before the midterm portfolio. The first half of the semester will focus on getting students to examine how their own personal histories (past writing/reading experiences as well as community involvements) have influenced their writing today. Further, this will get them to reshape their own writing strategies and methods. There will be 2 major writing assignments in this section, along with “feeder assignments” that lead up to the major essays.

Second 8 weeks
During the second half of the semester, students will focus their energy toward understanding research and the research process in order to help situate them within academic discourse. They will examine how texts communicate ideas and authors obtain authority. They will be given 2 major writing assignments during this half.

Policies

Professionalism & Class Expectations
As a new member of the university community, you may or may not be familiar with the general rules for acceptable college-level conduct. All instructors have their “do’s” and “don’ts,” which will vary from course to course. Here are mine:

COME TO CLASS PREPARED. Read all assigned readings, complete all assigned work, and come to class fully prepared to write and discuss the day’s topics, readings, and writings.
BE RESPECTFUL: Please be tolerant and respectful of others, particularly those who differ from you.

COMMUNICATE WITH ME. If there is something going on if your life that is affecting your work, please let me know as soon as possible. If you don’t understand or are having trouble completing an assignment, please let me know so I can work with you to help you. I prefer some form of written communication such as email to initiate this process.

MEET DEADLINES. It is your responsibility to turn in your assignments at the designated time and date.

DO NOT BRING IN FOOD OR DRINKS. The computer labs do not allow food or drinks unless they are closed bottles kept on the floor.

Technology Policy: Do not use technology to conduct personal/social business in class. Practice polite technology use by silencing and putting away phones in class.

Attendance Policy: You are a valued member of our discourse community. Please make every effort to attend class. In the unlikely event of being absent, please email me letting me know your situation. You are allowed one unexcused absence. Once again, email me.

Academic Integrity/Plagiarism
University students are expected to conduct themselves in accordance with the highest standards of academic honesty. Academic misconduct for which a student is subject to penalty includes all forms of cheating, such as illicit possession of examinations or examination materials, falsification, forgery, complicity or plagiarism.

University Rule: 13.02.99.C3.01 Procedure for Academic Misconduct Cases
Disciplinary action for academic misconduct is first the responsibility of the faculty member assigned to the course. The faculty member is charged with assessing the gravity of any case of academic misconduct and with giving appropriate sanction to any student involved. The faculty member must file a record (an Academic Misconduct Incident Form) for each case of academic misconduct, along with any materials involved. Any student who has been penalized for academic misconduct has the right to appeal the judgment or the penalty assessed, unless the student chooses not to sign the Academic Misconduct Incident Form within the time constraints indicated below. (Further details are available the University website: http://www.tamucc.edu/provost/university_rules/index.html, or from the Division of Student Affairs at 825-2612.

Plagiarism includes:
1. using the work of another as your own,
2. downloading or purchasing ready-made essays off the web and using them as your own,
3. using resource materials without correct documentation,
4. using the organization or language of a source without using quote marks and proper citation.

Be aware that there are other ways to use sources incorrectly, or to plagiarize. When in doubt, visit me or the Writing Center for help on correct use of sources, how to paraphrase, and how to document correctly.

Academic Dishonesty
Other forms of academic dishonesty include falsification (the intentional alteration of information), fabrication (the intentional invention of information), multiple submission (using the same material for two separate assignments or courses without permission from the instructors), and abuse of academic materials (the intentional destruction of resource materials).

Students with Disabilities and Veterans
The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please call or visit Disability Services at (361) 825-5816 in CCH 116 and 119.

If you are a returning veteran and are experiencing cognitive and/or physical access issues in the classroom or on campus, please contact the Disability Services office for assistance at (361) 825-5816.

Academic Advising
The College of Liberal Arts requires that students meet with an Academic Advisor as soon as they are ready to declare a major. The Academic Advisor will set up a degree plan, which must be signed by the student, a faculty mentor, and the department chair. The College’s Academic Advising Center is located in Driftwood 203E, and can be reached at 825-3466.

Grade Appeal Process
As stated in University Rule 13.02.99.C2, Student Grade Appeals, a student who believes that he or she has not been held to appropriate academic standards as outlined in the class syllabus, equitable evaluation procedures, or appropriate grading, may appeal the final grade given in the course. The burden of proof is upon the student to demonstrate the appropriateness of the appeal. A student with a complaint about a grade is encouraged to first discuss the matter with the instructor. For complete details, including the responsibilities of the parties involved in the process and the number of days allowed for completing the steps in the process, see University Rule

- 13.02.99.C2, Student Grade Appeals, and University Procedure 13.02.99.C2.01, Student Grade Appeal Procedures. These documents are accessible through the University Rules Web site at http://www.tamucc.edu/provost/university_rules/index.html. For assistance and/or guidance in the grade appeal process, students may contact the Office of Student Affairs.
