I. Course Description

The course will examine the historical, theoretical, ethical, and philosophical foundations in counseling. We will explore major theories of counseling and psychotherapy including an in-depth study of one’s personal practice theory. Projects may include development, research, utilization, and evaluation of theoretical applications in school and community settings. We will address the relevance of theories in counselor education and supervision. Admission to doctoral program required for enrollment.

II. Rationale

This course serves as one of the foundation courses of the Ph.D. program in Counselor Education and is designed to address the history, research, efficacy and current use of individual and group theories.

V. Course Objectives

The course objectives are designed to address the needs of Doctoral Level Counseling Students in our CACREP accredited program. Accordingly, the course will emphasize the application of knowledge gained from research and best practices in counseling. Students will be exposed to the latest research on best practices associated with each theory in both lecture and experiential formats designed to prepare them for professional practice of training and supervising counselors in a variety of settings. This emphasis is based on the following 2009 CACREP standards:

CACREP Doctoral Standard IV-C-1 Demonstrates understanding of the major roles, responsibilities, and activities of counselor educators.
CACREP Doctoral Standard IV-D-2  Demonstrates ability to implement course design, delivery, and evaluation methods appropriate to course objectives.

CACREP Doctoral Standard IV-G-1  Demonstrates knowledge of the major counseling theories, including their strengths and weaknesses, theoretical bases for efficacy, applicability to multicultural populations, and ethical/legal considerations.

CACREP Doctoral Standard IV-G-3  Demonstrates knowledge of methods for evaluating counseling effectiveness.

CACREP Doctoral Standard IV-G-3-a  Demonstrates understanding of the research base for existing counseling theories.

CACREP Doctoral Standard IV-G-3-a  Demonstrates understanding of theories of individual and family development and transitions across the lifespan.

B. Student Learning Outcomes:

1. Students demonstrate learning of theories pertaining to the principles and practice of counseling, group work, and crisis/trauma as evidenced by scores on class presentations and responses on a comprehensive exam.

2. Students will demonstrate knowledge of the major counseling theories, including their strengths and weaknesses, theoretical basis for efficacy, applicability to multicultural populations, and ethical/legal considerations as evidenced by class presentations, responses on a comprehensive examination, and a theory paper.

3. Students will learn various methods for evaluating counseling effectiveness as evidenced by class discussion and responses on a comprehensive exam.

4. Students will demonstrate understanding of the research base for existing counseling theories by a seminal works presentation and a theory paper.

VI. Course Topics

Major topics or projects will be related to the following theories and themes in individual and group counseling and psychotherapy: psychodynamic, person-centered and existential, cognitive and behavioral, affective humanistic/experiential and multicultural systems. Special topics may include multicultural issues in counseling, postmodern influences, eclectic approaches vs. integrated theories, counseling efficacy, and current theories of trauma resolution.
VII. Instructional Methods and Activities

Instruction will be primarily lecture and seminar format supplemented with group discussions, participation, and class exercises. Given the focus on theory-based counseling interventions, students will be expected to engage in discussion and process.

1. Complete reading assignments and participate in seminar discussions.

2. Reading Quizzes: Students will complete reading quizzes at the beginning of each class starting the second class meeting. Each quiz will be completed through the Blackboard system and consist of 10 items that reflect the main points, terminology, and concepts detailed in the reading.

3. Theory Presentation: Students will each present a group and individual theory in a manner appropriate for a doctoral level course. It is expected that you will present information, promote dialogue, and facilitate learning. Your presentation must incorporate a 10-items quiz and a game or other creative activities that will illuminate the main points discussed in the presentation and engage participants in the experiential learning process. Your presentation should only discuss the major highlights of the theory, be at least 1.5 hours, and be well-organized. In your presentation you should include the following information:

   - Who are the contributors to this theory?
   - Why do problems arise in clients according to this theory?
   - How are problems resolved in clients according to this theory?
   - What is the client-counselor relationship according to this theory?
   - How is this theory practiced with culturally and socially diverse clients?
   - What are some limitations of this theory? What are some benefits of this theory?
   - What are key terms used in this theory?
   - Compare the Context then to the context now for this theory

   You will turn in your preparation materials (which may include Power Point slides, handouts, activities directions, etc.) and a theory outline to the instructor. In addition, each student will evaluate each theory presentation using the form provided on Blackboard and the syllabus. Feedback should be constructive, professional, and designed to assist your colleagues in developing effective teaching skills.

4. Current Issues & Events Facilitation: Each class a student will be responsible for leading class discussion on a selected current event or topic that focuses on advocacy, social justice, cultural competence, and ethical competence for counselors. This topic and/or current event should be discussed from the perspective of how it impacts the discipline of counseling and specific clients that might come to counseling and how culture is impacted by the event. For your assigned day to complete to facilitate a discussion, you will turn in a 1-2 page summary answering the below:
- What do you believe are the main issues present for the event?
- Based on the main issues, what the most difficult for you and why?
- How do you believe the issue/event should be approached as a professional counselor?
- If you had to conceptualize what is going on in this case from a social justice and advocacy perspective what would it be?
- How might you conceptualize this issue using a cultured-centered lens?
- How does the issue/event link to the counseling profession?

5. Theory, Assessment, and Research Literature Reviews: Each student will identify and review one of the counseling theories covered in the first and second halves of the course. Your paper should address the following topics: (a) describe the theory’s major constructs and identify the major and minor contributors, (b) from this theoretical perspective, how are problems started, maintained, and mitigated?, (c) identify and describe some of the assessments have been developed based on this theory, (d) describe the current state of the theory in terms of acceptance and research, (e) identify cultural groups r populations that appear to be underrepresented in the research for this theory, (f) identify the client populations and clinical settings that applications of this theory appear to be most appropriate for, (g) considerations for providing training to counseling students who wish to use this theory in their practice.

The paper should be 10-15 pages, including bibliography, use a theory covered in class and use the most recent APA formatting. You will be writing two papers and must select a different theory for each paper.

6. Theory, Assessment, & Research Poster Session: This is a presentation that should illuminate your theory, assessment, and research paper and gives a snap shot of how you have conceptualized the client issues using your selected theory and outlines what assessments are available and what researchers have found related to interventions that work best with what clinic issues. Your poster should cover the following: (a) conceptualization of client pathology and wellness, (b) the availability and description of theory-based assessments, (c) clinical linkage to research and limitations found in the current research, and (d) suggested interventions and recommendations for best practices. Your poster presentation should be 15-20 minutes in length.

7. Final Examination: Students will complete a final examination during the final week of class that covers all theories covered during the course. Examination items will consist of those included within the weekly reading quizzes and essay questions related to all theories covered in the class.

Grade Dispute Policy

If you do not understand the reason you received a specific grade on any assignment, please feel free to contact me so that we can clear up any confusion or uncertainty. If you believe a grade should be reconsidered, take time to review my comments and follow the instructions below:

1. Wait at least 24 hours after receiving the grade, but no more than one week to talk with me. We will arrange a meeting for this discussion. This discussion will not be via email.

2. Your specific reasons for receiving another grade must be written in a memo to me (2 page max).

3. The original copies of the evaluation and all associated assignments must be included with your written memo.

*Please note that there is no guarantee that a reconsideration of your work will yield a higher grade. Any grade given during one semester cannot be reconsidered in the subsequent semester (i.e. a grade given in the fall semester cannot be reconsidered in the spring semester).
IX. Course Policies and Schedule

Participation & Professionalism

Like any class, this class may be considered a rather large group. As in any group, commitment--as reflected by attendance and active participation--is vital. Because of the strong experiential component (role play, group exercises, etc.) in this class, your attendance is important not only for your own learning but for the learning of others and for class spirit. Therefore, in order to receive points, you must both attend and participate (i.e., talk) in class discussions about readings and in other activities. This will require that you read assigned material prior to the class period in which the reading is discussed. It is also expected that your cell phones be turned off or on vibrate and not visible for the duration of the class. More than two unexcused absences will result in non-credit for the course.

Late Work Policy

One added challenge to attending graduate school coursework is that many students have families, work part or full-time jobs, and have to negotiate a number of responsibilities outside of the classroom. As a faculty member I acknowledge that it is understandable that life circumstances may take precedence to your school work and encourage you to plan, when possible, the turning in of your assignments and completion of course activities in the event that you should have to miss class. As a policy, all assignments are to be turned in by the beginning of class on the due day. I do not accept any late work that is not accompanied by documentation (e.g. medical professional, computer technician report, etc.); however, I will accept incomplete work and score what work has been completed.

Classroom Climate

The classroom is a place to facilitate a climate of professionalism and respect at all times. Please be cognizant that classroom discussion and sharing benefits personal and professional growth. It is imperative that you remember to respect other opinions regardless of whether they are similar or very divergent from your own. Talking while others are sharing, holding side conversations with your neighbors during class discussions, talking negatively about the course, and providing negative commentary about those teaching the course, all contribute to a negative classroom climate. Any student actively participating in negative classroom climate behaviors, will impact their ability to obtain a professor recommendation for future jobs and may result in formal documentation in the student’s permanent file. Because this course is taught as a seminar and is shared by participants, it is not possible to make up material missed in class. Plan to attend all class meetings. Students are expected to adhere to the Ethical Guidelines of the American Counseling Association and the Association for Counselor Education and Supervision when engaged in counseling, teaching, and/or scholarly activities. Unethical conduct may result in grade penalty or other consequences according to departmental guidelines.
Diversity

The Department of Counseling and Educational Psychology aspires to create a safe and diversity-sensitive learning environment that respects the rights, dignity, and welfare of students, faculty, and staff. Diversity means the fair representation of all groups of individuals, the inclusion of minority perspectives and voices, and appreciation of different cultural and socioeconomic group practices. We aspire to foster and maintain an atmosphere that is free from discrimination, harassment, exploitation, or intimidation. Department courses will strive to provide opportunity for all students to discuss issues of diversity including, but not limited to, ethnicity, gender, disability, and sexual orientation.

Disability Accommodations

The Americans with Disabilities act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please call or visit Disability Services at (361) 825-5816 in Driftwood 101. If you are a returning veteran and experiencing cognitive and/or physical access issues in the classroom or on campus, please contact the Disability Services office for assistance at (361) 825-5816.

Written Assignments and Academic Misconduct

All written work submitted must be the student’s original work and conform to the guidelines format and style indicated within the American Psychological Association (APA) Publication Manual, Sixth Edition available online and via their publications catalog. This means that any substantive ideas, phrases, sentences, and/or any published ideas must be properly referenced to avoid even the appearance of plagiarism. Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to, the use, by paraphrase or direct quotation, of the published or unpublished work of another person without full or clear acknowledgment. It also includes the unacknowledged use of materials prepared by another person or agency in the selling of term papers of other academic materials. It is the student’s responsibility to know all relevant university policies concerning plagiarism. Any documented cases of plagiarism can and will result in dismissal from the course with a failing grade, and may result in other more serious sanctions by the College of Education.

Your written work may be submitted to Turnitin.com, or a similar electronic detection method, for an evaluation of the originality of your ideas and proper use and attribution of sources. As part of this process, you may be required to submit electronic as well as hard copies of your written work, or be given other instructions to follow. By taking this course, you agree that all assignments may undergo this review process and that the assignment may be included as a source document in Turnitin.com's restricted access database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism in such documents. Any assignment not submitted according to the procedures given by the instructor may be penalized or may not be accepted at all.

XII. Grade Appeals

As stated in University Rule 13.02.99.C2, Student Grade Appeals, a student who believes that he or she has not been held to appropriate academic standards as outlined in the class syllabus, equitable evaluation procedures, or appropriate grading, may appeal the final grade given in the course. The burden of proof is upon the student to demonstrate the appropriateness of the appeal. A student with a complaint about a grade is encouraged to first discuss the matter with the instructor. For complete details, including the responsibilities of the parties involved in the process and the number of days allowed for completing the steps in the process, see University Rule 13.02.99.C2, Student Grade appeals, and University procedure 13.02.99.C2.01, Student Grade Appeal Procedures. These documents are accessible through the University Rules Web site at http://www.tamucc.edu/provost/university_rules/index.html. For assistance and /or guidance in the grade appeal process, students may contact the Office of Student Affairs.
