V. Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes

This course is designed to enable students to:

1. develop understanding the history, funding, guiding educational philosophy, and design of a broad array of special populations, programs and units.

2. investigate local implementation of special programs and special units.

3. apply a grasp of anti-deficit thinking to the design and delivery of special programs.

4. develop and utilize the theoretical knowledge and analytic skills for leadership in meaningful systems change.

5. promote students' understanding of the organization and administrator of special programs and special units by critically assessing current and emerging practices and policies.

6. develop students’ analytic skills relative to problem identification and resolution in a variety of settings relating to special populations and programs.

VI. Course Topics

The major topics to be considered are:

- Assessment, Accountability and Quality
- Special Units:
  - Transportation
  - Food Services
  - Textbook
Testing
Campus Security
Counseling
Health Services
Facilities and Maintenance

- Special Programs:
  English Language Learners/Bilingual Education
  Gifted and Talented
  At-risk Student Populations
  Career Technical Education
  Special Education

VII. Instructional Methods and Activities

Methods and activities for instruction include:

1. Traditional experiences (lecture, discussion, demonstration, etc.)
2. Field Project
3. Research Project

VIII. Evaluation and Grade Assignment

In order to successfully complete this course, students are required to successfully complete the following:

- Attendance and Participation – (15%):
  Students are expected to be in attendance and participate fully during the entire timeframe of each session. Participation as a learner is expected including preparedness for class and full adherence to classroom norms - Anchors for Learning in the Community. The Collaborative Participation Rubric will be used to assess each student’s participation in class sessions.

- Assignments/Activities/Reflections (15%)
  Reading assignments and activities and reflections relating to specific chapters and guest speakers will be assigned often. These assignments allow you to become familiar with the different policies, and data relating to specific special populations of students. It is expected that you come to class prepared by having completed the assignments prior to class.

- Special Units Field Project (35%)
  Students are required to complete a field project. There are two parts to this project.

1. Compile an auxiliary services notebook, based on your district. The information in this evaluation notebook is meant to be useful to you in the future.

   Each service area should include information as follows:
• Why is the service important to student learning? This information should be no more than two or three sentences.

• Legal information: Note the laws that govern this service, if any.

• Evaluation Criteria: Identify at least 3 (or more) criteria you believe a principal should use in identifying excellent service in this area.

• Support: State specific actions a principal should take or attitudes a principal should have in order to effectively support this service area.

• Contact Information: Whom in your district would you contact if you had a problem with this service as a campus principal? Give the title, the individual’s name, and the telephone number and email, if applicable.

• Bibliography: Identify any publications specific to this service that you feel would be helpful if you wished to learn more about this area in the future.

• Notes: You may or may not include special notes containing points you want to remember.

• 1-2 pages should be adequate for each service area.

2. Expert Connections

Visit with a director or coordinator to discuss one of the listed special units and the issues involved in serving students receiving these services. Write a 3-page report (double-spaced) on your findings. You will share your findings in a class discussion forum. (80 points for project, 45 points for discussion).

Due to confidentiality, you are to exercise extreme professionalism and discretion as you complete this project.

• Special Populations Research Project (35%)

There is a natural tendency to focus on how to defend ourselves from data instead of how to use and succeed with it. By gaining background information through lessons and class activities, the student will be given the opportunity to choose an area of research interest relating to the administration of a special population programs. In this assignment, you will find specific special population data on a particular school district (of your choosing, but not where you work). Each student/group must choose a different district.

The research project assignment asks you to identify a topic that provides an analysis of an issue relevant to special populations in the present within its historical context. Identify and write research questions to give us context of your interest. Develop descriptions of your data. Guiding Questions: What issues are important in this context? What do people argue about when they argue about it? Is this data representative of any particular culture, geographical area? How can you facilitate change?

Imagine creative ways to present your project that convey the significant conclusions of your research.

Construct a presentation (PowerPoint, Adobe Presenter, Photostory, Prezi or any other presentation software) to be shared with the class.

Each student will write a 1-2 page summary of their work, the methodological process used and the merits of conducting data analysis.

Grades (Source: Graduate Catalog)

The letter grades used for graduate work are the same as those used in undergraduate work (A, B, C, D, and F), but graduate credit is allowed only for courses completed with grades of A, B, and C, although grades of D and F are used in computing grade point averages. Limits are placed on the number of C’s that are allowed for graduate credit. Grade points per semester hour are noted below:

Student Responsibility

It is expected that students will come to class prepared, i.e. having read all assigned readings.

When students are talking or presenting in class, students should be engaged, listen and respond in a positive manner. Treating each other with respect contributes to other students’ learning and establishes a positive learning environment.
Issues about schools, teachers, administrators and district issues should remain in the classroom and not be shared outside the classroom. Confidentiality and integrity are first and foremost.

XII. Grade Appeals

As stated in University Rule 13.02.99.C2, Student Grade Appeals, a student who believes that he or she has not been held to appropriate academic standards as outlined in the class syllabus, equitable evaluation procedures, or appropriate grading, may appeal the final grade given in the course. The burden of proof is upon the student to demonstrate the appropriateness of the appeal. A student with a complaint about a grade is encouraged to first discuss the matter with the instructor. For complete details, including the responsibilities of the parties involved in the process and the number of days allowed for completing the steps in the process, see University Rule13.02.99.C2, Student Grade Appeals, and University Procedure 13.02.99.C2.01, Student Grade Appeal Procedures. These documents are accessible through the University Rules Web site at http://www.tamucc.edu/provost/university_rules/index.html. For assistance and/or guidance in the grade appeal process, students may contact the Office of Student Affairs.

XIII. Disabilities Accommodations

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please call or visit Disability Services at (361) 825-5816 in Driftwood 101.

If you are a returning veteran and are experiencing cognitive and/or physical access issues in the classroom or on campus, please contact the Disability Services office for assistance at (361) 825-5816.

XIV. Academic Integrity/Plagiarism.

University students are expected to conduct themselves in accordance with the highest standards of academic honesty. Academic misconduct for which a student is subject to penalty includes all forms of cheating, such as illicit possession of examinations or examination materials, falsification, forgery, complicity or plagiarism. (Plagiarism is the presentation of the work of another as one’s own work.) In this class, academic misconduct or complicity in an act of academic misconduct on an assignment or test will result in an automatic F.
XV. Dropping a Class

I hope that you never find it necessary to drop this or any other class. However, events can sometimes occur that make dropping a course necessary or wise. Please consult with me before you decide to drop to be sure it is the best thing to do. Should dropping the course be the best course of action, you must initiate the process to drop the course by going to the Student Services Center and filling out a course drop form. Just stopping attendance and participation WILL NOT automatically result in your being dropped from the class. June 21st is the last day to drop a class with an automatic grade of “W” this term.
